Take a look at the Sebel Surry Hills Sydney now

Sebel Surry Hills Sydney.

Last month, the Sebel Surry Hills Sydney opened in style, complete with acclaimed entertainer Leo Sayer and Albie... the beautiful Japanese Koi fish and all of his friends.

Formerly known as the Citigate Sebel Sydney, the Sebel Surry Hills Sydney has just completed a massive $20 million refurbishment to become Sydney's latest 4.5 star hotel.

Located in the heart of Surry Hills on Albion Street, it is Australia's first hotel to feature an in-ground glass aquarium lobby. The impressive 41,000 litre in-ground aquarium is home to 20 multi-coloured Japanese Koi fish, including the hotel's mascot, 'Albie'.

The Townhouse Bar & Restaurant, named after the iconic Sebel Townhouse in Elizabeth Bay has been redesigned and its walls adorned with memorabilia which pay homage to the famous hotel's long history of celebrity guests. Located on the ground floor of the hotel, the Townhouse Bar opens up onto the street with alfresco seating and traditional 'pub fare' with a modern and seasonal twist.

The hotel's 270 spacious guestrooms and suites are highlighted by new king-size Cloud beds with a 15 centimetre thick bed topper offering exceptional comfort. Other features include large LCD screens, modern timber furniture, new custom-designed sofas and spacious bathrooms.

The local business community can also take advantage of the Sebel Surry Hills Sydney's 10 versatile conference and function rooms, catering for intimate board meetings or gala functions. The 15-metre indoor swimming pool, heated spa and sauna is a definite drawcard, complimented by a rooftop sun deck and fully equipped gymnasium.
